

David Adkins Joins Firetrace Team

DECEMBER 30TH, 2015

Scottsdale, Ariz. - Scottsdale, Arizona based Firetrace International, a global leader in the innovation of special hazard fire protection systems, announced that industry veteran David Adkins is joining the Firetrace team. Adkins will serve as Head of International Sales for the Firetrace International Ltd. division, with responsibilities for sales in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and India.

Adkins has held roles in the fire suppression industry for over 30 years, which has given him a wide perspective and understanding of the industry. Starting as a system installer, Adkins later joined a large distributor and ultimately served as general manager and managing director for the EMEA divisions within a global fire suppression manufacturer.

Mark Cavanaugh, President and CEO of Firetrace, said, "I am pleased to add David to our team. His wealth of experience managing both fire industry products and sales team members will help fill a role that is crucial to the continued growth of Firetrace in the EMEA and Indian markets."

Adkins appointment is effect on January 4, 2016 and he will be based out of the Firetrace International office in Redhill, UK.
